After his arrival in Tehran, Nasr Khan Qashqai stated on 27 December 1953:

- a. that he met Prime Minister Zahedi on 26 December, and Zahedi was cordial but non-committal;
- b. that he sent a message to the Shah but had received no answer;
- c. that he is willing either to leave the country or to stay, whichever the Shah prefers;
- d. that, if he is told to leave, he hoped that the Government would buy his holdings, otherwise he lacked the funds to reside abroad.

1. Comment. Nasr Khan travelled from Kazeroun to Tehran on approximately 15 December 1953 to seek rapprochement with Zahedi and the Shah. For further information concerning his recent activity,
